

At St Vincent de Paul of Seattle | King County We deliver on the Promise of Hope.

With your help, St Vincent de Paul of Seattle | King County can continue to demonstrate unmatched capacity in the Puget Sound Region to provide hope, healing and concrete support to help those who need it the most.

Each year, our SVdP Crisis Helpline receives nearly 40,000 requests from neighbors experiencing an urgent, critical need, who are connected with volunteers in their own neighborhoods, called 'Vincentians'. By treating every caller with dignity and compassion, we help neighbors build the resources and skills they need to recover from and move out of crisis.

Throughout King County, our 900+ volunteer Vincentians pair up to form skilled outreach teams who meet with neighbors in their homes by listening, building relationships of trust and responding with compassionate care. Vincentians restore hope and dignity at every home visit, through compassionate listening and effective responses that help address the multiple and complex needs of individuals and families in neighborhoods across all of King County.

Last year in Seattle-King County, St. Vincent de Paul provided $2.1 million in rent and utility assistance alone to help prevent family evictions and reduce homelessness.

Because of your support, our neighbors find hope and healing at St Vincent de Paul.
